

JONATHAN SAINSBURY

The Wentworth Sofa

An exceptionally rare and important fine quality mid-18th century carved mahogany three-seater settee attributed to the Yorkshire cabinet-makers Wright and Elwick. It is interesting to note the depth which is deeper than normal. The sofa having a serpentine shaped back without scrolled arms and squab cushion with serpentine shaped moulded rails carved with C-scrolls and acanthus clasps; on eight cabriole legs with acanthus clasp to the knees, terminating in acanthus carved scroll toes.
